

Real locus pairs share far more flanking genes than their matched random windows, one locus per species, +/-10 coding genes

